Rulers of China Met Deaths Unattended

Peking, Nov. 14.—The Emperor died shortly after 5 o'clock this afternoon. He had been ill for a long time, and during recent audiences with foreign representatives here he was unable to sit upon the throne or even in an upright position. It was evident for a long time that he would be unable to withstand a crisis, which sooner or later must develop in the disease from which he was suffering. Recent climatic extremes caused fatal complications.

At the moment of the death of the Emperor the Dowager Empress' own death chamber chair was waiting in the courtyard. She, too, had been in a serious condition, and word that she was brought to her earlier in the day that the Emperor was dying caused her to collapse. This has prevented her from assuming the relationship of grandmother to the successor to the throne, which, according to the Chinese, would enormously augment her authority.

There is little indication of emotion among the people over the events which have been transpiring. The Emperor's death and the probable death of the Dowager Empress within a very short time have had very little effect upon the Chinese, who are pursuing the even tenor of their way without signs of mourning.

Kwang Han's later life was a pitiable spectacle to his attendants. His feebleness had rendered him a mere puppet and he had suffered long from ill health, which was combined with fear and despair. Lately he showed marked signs of mental disturbance, and even went so far last August as to declare himself mad.

The edict promoting Prince Chun to the regency and his infant son, Pu Wei, to be heir presumptive, made a good public impression. It satisfied the reformers and appeals to the sentiments held by the people for Kwang Han because it respects the close blood ties in the matter of succession and introduces a new and more modern element into the government. It is an evidence of the victory of the reformers.

The government today notified the American legation officially that Prince Chun had been made regent and that he was to be the head of the state. This is recognition of the retirement of the Dowager Empress.

One of the edicts issued in the name of the Emperor said: "Since last autumn we have been ill. The physicians recommended by the government have not been successful in curing us. We are weak and without spirit, racked by pain, without appetite, cold and feverish, and it has been impossible for us to sleep. We are anxious to permit the viceroys and the governors to send other physicians to us quickly and we will give extraordinary rewards to the physicians or officials who help us."

Peking, Nov. 15.—Tsze Hai An, Dowager Empress of China, autocratic head of the Government, which she directed without successful interference since 1861, and without protest since 1881, died at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The announcement of the Dowager Empress' death was official and followed closely upon the announcement that Kwang Han, the Emperor, had died yesterday at 5 o'clock in the afternoon but it is believed the death occurred a considerable time before that act down in the official statement. An edict issued at 8 o'clock this morning placed upon the throne Prince Pu Yi, the three-year-old son of Prince Chun, the regent of the empire, in accordance with a promise given by the Dowager Empress soon after the marriage of Prince Chun in 1903. An edict issued on Friday made Prince Pu Yi heir presumptive.

Troops Ready For Disorders.
The foreign legations were notified by the Foreign Board of the death of the Emperor and the succession of Prince Pu Yi. Troops have been in readiness for several days to quell any disorders that might arise on the death of Kwang Han. The possibility of disorders was made greater because of the fact that the death of the Dowager Empress was known to be close at hand. Two divisions of troops have been held in reserve, and these are now stationed in various quarters of the city. Twenty gendarmes were dispatched to guard the legations, and up to the present the duties of the forces have been slight. It was announced that the legation guard was ordered out "at the special call of the legations on account of the Emperor's death."

Prince Chun, the regent, has ordered the Viceroys and Governors to take precautions for the continuation of the administration of the provinces as heretofore and he has ordered a number of days of mourning. The court will go into mourning for three years. Peking already has been greatly transformed. All red objects have been removed and blue substituted. The people learned this evening of the death of the Dowager Empress, and, although the Chinese are in no wise emotional, they showed that they were profoundly impressed by the passing of their powerful ruler. The foreigners in the city are watching the strange ceremonies with great interest. At the palace elaborate rites are being observed. A flood of edicts has been sent forth.

Died Alone and Unattended.

Deathbed observations of 3000 years ago marked the passing of the Emperor and Dowager. They died alone and unattended, although surrounded by circles of abject spectators who remained a real distance, as, on account of the sacred persons of their majesties, they could not be approached. The Emperor died as he had lived, without ministrations of whatever kind or scientific aid. For months he had refused to permit the service of foreign physicians, and although it was stated that he had gone back to the old form of medical treatment, it is believed that latterly he received no treatment at all.

The Government has given out that the Dowager Empress in a brief interval on Friday last received Prince Chun, who is a Manchurian and a member of the royal family, and the edicts declaring Prince Pu Yi heir presumptive and Prince Chun Regent of the empire. Prince Chun was at the beginning of the Boxer outbreak Lord Chamberlain of the court and commander of the Peking field forces. It was on him that the foreign officials hung hopes of the envoys. He has held many positions and was high in imperial favor.

Dynasty Well Intrinched.
That the Dowager Empress took this step is believed to have successfully established the Chun regime, which is the Manchurian regime, without obstacle, and the opinion is held here that this solution of the difficulty which has confronted the Government is the best possible.

Until word of the death is spread broadcast no disorders are apprehended. China is quieter now than at any time since 1900. Local disorders in the south are possible on any pretext, but the north is more inclined to peace. There are few signs of antagonism to foreigners, and there is no manner of doubt that Prince Chun will be able to meet the situation. He is recognized as thoroughly progressive and is the most acceptable man that could be chosen to those most disposed to cause trouble, the reformers. Antagonism on the part of the Conservatives and even an insurrectionary movement is conceivable, because the death of the powerful woman, who dominated all, and the weakling Emperor sweeps away the old palace corruptionists.

DEPORTED CHINESE ON THE HONGKONG

The Hongkong Maru, which arrived here this morning from the Pacific Coast, carries sixteen Chinese, being deported by order of the United States Immigration Service. The Celestials were found guilty of being illegally in the United States, and were therefore ordered sent back to China.

While the Hongkong Maru is in Honolulu harbor, careful watch will be kept on the Chinese, the steamship company being responsible for the safe return to the Flowery Kingdom of the unwanted visitors. Special watchmen were placed on board the Hongkong Maru to make sure that the Chinese do not take it into their heads to make a break for liberty here.

DISCUSS MAKIKI CAMP QUESTION

The matter of the encroachment of Japanese labor camps and tenements on the choice residence section of Makiki is to be taken up by the Central Improvement Club, the Kaahumanu Improvement Club, which has been fighting the Japanese contractors in the courts, having asked the central club to lend its assistance in the fight.

The meeting of the Central Improvement Club will take place at the Promotion Committee rooms in the Young building on the evening of Friday, Nov. 27, at 7:30 o'clock. A full attendance of delegates and of all others interested in this matter, which is of importance to all residents of Honolulu, is requested.

ASSESSOR TO HAVE COURTHOUSE SPACE

Marston Campbell is arranging for an addition to be built to the court house at Koloa for the purpose of securing space for Assessor Farley's offices. Mr. Farley applied to Campbell for additions and improvements to his present offices, but as it was known that the office was not on Government property, Campbell decided to build an addition to the Koloa courthouse. This is one of the matters which he looked into while on Kauai, from whence he returned this morning.

PROSAIC AGE.

The modern Romeo climbed up the fire escape and stood beneath the balcony.

"Darling," he gurgled fervently, "I love you."
"But how do I know you speak the truth, Romeo?" responded the modern Juliet. "Men are so fickle these days."

"Fair one, I swear by yonder moon!"

Juliet laughed and showed her bridgework.

"Why, you goose," she giggled, "that's not the moon. That's a headlight on an airship."

Pining for the days of Bill Shakespeare, the modern Romeo dropped down the fire escape just as the night watchman awoke from his nap.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

No other medicine for Woman's ills in the world has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

No other medicine has such a record of success for woman's diseases, or such hosts of grateful friends as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been the standard remedy for feminine ills, inflammation, ulceration, and consequent Spinal Weakness.

It has relieved more cases of Backache and Local Weaknesses than any other one remedy. It dissolves and expels tumors in an early stage of development.

Irregularities and periodic pains, Weakness of the Stomach, Indigestion, Bloating, Nervous Prostration, Headache, General Debility, quickly yield to it; also deranged organs, causing pain, dragging sensations and backache. Under all circumstances it acts in harmony with the female system.

It removes that wearing feeling, extreme lassitude, "don't care" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feeling, excitability, irritability, nervousness, dizziness, faintness, sleeplessness, flatulency, melancholy or the "blues." These are indications of Feminine disorders, which this medicine overcomes as well as slight derangement of the Kidneys of either sex.

Women who are sick and want to get well should refuse to accept any substitute for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
